From the Amſt.Cour.and Leid.Gaz.dated Jan. 4.&c.

Venice, December 21.

THE Proveditor General Delfino treats the King of Denmark, who under the Name of Count of Oldenbourg has been 7 Days at Verona, with all imaginable Honours: And the Nobility and other Perſons of Figure in that City, entertain his Majeſty daily with Feaſts, Balls, Conſorts of Muſick, &c. M. Wolf, Maſter of his Majeſty's Houſhold, came hither to Day, and notified to the Senate that his Majeſty will be to Morrow in the Evening at Vicenza, and the next Day will come hither. Notwithſtanding this King is to be underſtood to come hither incognito, this Republick will depute 4 Procurators, all of them Knights, to attend him, and will ſend to him the Preſent they are us'd to make to Crown'd Heads: In ſhort, they will ſhew his Majeſty all the Honours ſuiting his high Rank, if he will accept them. His Majeſty thought fit to ſay publickly at Verona, that he had undertaken this Journey only for the ſake of his Health. On Monday laſt, M. Cole Secretary of the Queen of Great Britain, went to an Audience of the College, in a magnificent Habit, his Retinue being in rich Liveries: He was accompanied by the Conſul and all the Merchants of the Engliſh Nation living here: He made his Speech in Italian, and then deliver'd his Credential Letter from the Queen: The Doge being abſent, becauſe of Indiſpoſition, the Vice-Doge made him an Anſwer in very obliging Terms: Returning Home he gave a ſplendid Entertainment to the Gentlemen that had accompanied him: And to Day being ſent for to the Doge, a Secretary of State deliver'd to him an Anſwer to the Letter from the Queen. General Steinau is confirm'd for a Year longer in the Employment of Field-Marſhal-General of the Forces of this Republick. Thoſe who have Pretentions to the Effects which the late Duke of Mantua left behind him, have agreed together; and on the 5th of January the Stables of Horſes of the Deceaſed will be ſold at Padua. Some Letters from Rome, ſay the Marſhal de Theſſe is about to come hither.

From the Bruſſels Gazette, dated Jan. 1.

Hamburg, Dec. 24. The Miniſters of the Princes of the Circle of lower Saxony, have approv'd an Expedient propos'd by the Count de Schonborn the Emperour's Plenipotentiary for putting an End to the Diſputes of ſome of thoſe Miniſters for Priority of Rank: Which is, that the Secretary of the Commiſſion ſhall ſend by 4 different Footmen to all the Miniſters ſeparately, the Points upon which they are to Deliberate, and that thoſe Miniſters ſhall in like Manner ſend back their Reſolutions. By this Method 8 Points are already adjuſted: In the mean Time there is no Talk of diſcharging this City from lodging and ſubſiſting the Troops that are in it till the Commiſſion be abſolutely brought to a Period.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated Jan. 4.

Berlin, Dec. 25. The 19th of this Month, there was a Magnificent Feaſt at Court, in further Celebration of the Royal Nuptials; and after the Feaſt there were Entertainments of Muſick, a Play was Acted; and a Lottery was drawn, the Prizes of which were from 200 to 1500 Crowns and given by his Majeſty. Moſt of the Perſons of Quality here of both Sexes, were at this Feaſt and Diverſions, which laſted till late in the Night; their Majeſties being preſent. Laſt Night the Rejoycings and Entertainments for the Occaſion abovemention'd, were concluded, by ſome Artificial Fireworks and Illuminations throughout the City. The King came out of the Caſtle at half an Hour paſt 6 in the Evening, with a numerous Retinue, to divert himſelf with the Sight of the Fireworks; and ſpent 3 Hours in that Diverſion, going from Place to Place: His Majeſty was moſt pleas'd with the Fireworks and Illuminations made at the Expence of the Great Marſhal of the Court, of M. Ilgen Councellor of his Privy Council, of the Chamberlain, of M. Kraut, and of the Miniſter of Muſcovy.

Hague, Jan. 4. 'The Garriſon of Ghent, which 'are march'd out according to the Capitulation, 'are reckon'd to have been 35 Battallions and 19 'Squadrons. 'Tis generally believ'd, that the de'ſign of the Court of France in putting ſo great a 'Number of Men into that Place, could be no o'ther than to deter the Allies from undertaking the 'Siege at ſuch a Seaſon of the Year: That finding 'this had no Effect, they thought fit to Order the 'Count de la Mothe to capitulate in time, to ſave 'his Garriſon. It being provided by the 2d Article 'of the Capitulation, that the Clergy and Magi'ſtracy of Ghent ſhould treat diſtinctly for them'ſelves; and the Field-Deputies with the Army, ha'ving declin'd to conclude that Treaty, alledging that 'it peculiarly belong'd to the Deputies of the State 'at Bruſſels; Some People here would inſinuate, 'that the private Intention of the Field-Deputies, 'was to let Time ſlip away, till the Enemy's Garri'ſon ſhould be march'd out, in Order afterwards, 'not ſo much to treat as to preſcribe a Capitulati'on to that diſobedient City; namely, ſuch as may 'in ſome Meaſure puniſh the Inhabitants for their 'Revolt. But ſuch Suggeſtions are too unworthy 'the Candour and Ingenuity of thoſe Deputies, to 'be regarded: The Enemy's Garriſon in Bruges, 'when ſummon'd by a Trumpet from the Duke 'of Marlborough to yield up the Place, return'd 'Anſwer, That they would maintain themſelves there 'whatever it might coſt them: But notwithſtanding 'this Boaſt, they thought fit to abandon it the 'Night between the 1ſt and 2d Inſtant. The Field 'Deputies with the Army, having upon the Con'cluſion of the Campaign deſir'd Leave of the States 'to return home, their High Mightineſſes rea'dily granted it, and accordingly a Permiſſion in 'Form was diſpatch'd to them Yeſterday by a Cou'rier, together with ſome ſecret Inſtructions, with the

'Execution

Execution of which their Commission is to expire. The 30th of last Month the States pass'd a Resolution, to cause pressing Instances to be made to the Imperial Court, to hasten to an absolute Conclusion the Accommodation with that of Rome: Fearing left if that Affair should be protracted, some Mischief might from that Delay redound to the Common Cause. The Council of State have drawn up a Resolution and Establishment for a certain Number of Troops of Augmentation for the Service of the ensuing Year, over and above the ordinaary Establishment contain'd in their general Petition; and have transmited the same to the respective Provinces for their Consent; which 'tis not at all doubted will be readily given.
